

Where to Report and Who to Call

Free, official places to report fraud and get help. Keep this sheet with your important papers.

Report fraud and identity theft

| What happened                                      | Where to go                                                                                                   |
|----------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Any scam, fraud, or bad business practice          | FTC: ReportFraud.ftc.gov                                                                               |
| Identity theft (adult or child)                    | IdentityTheft.gov for a personal recovery plan and FTC report                                          |
| Money or information lost online                   | FBI Internet Crime Complaint Center: ic3.gov                                                           |
| Scam text message                                  | Forward it to 7726 (SPAM), then delete it                                                              |
| Fraud against someone 60 or older                  | National Elder Fraud Hotline: 833-FRAUD-11 (833-372-8311), Mon–Fri, 10 a.m.–6 p.m. ET                  |
| A child threatened, exploited, or asked for images | NCMEC CyberTipline: report.cybertip.org or 1-800-843-5678 · FBI: tips.fbi.gov or 1-800-CALL-FBI |
| Removing a minor's private images                  | Take It Down: takeitdown.ncmec.org                                                                     |
| Cyberbullying                                      | StopBullying.gov for guidance and platform reporting links                                             |

Freeze your credit (free for adults and children)

| Credit bureau     | Phone        | Website        |
|-------------------|--------------|----------------|
| Equifax    | 888-298-0045 | equifax.com    |
| Experian   | 888-397-3742 | experian.com   |
| TransUnion | 888-909-8872 | transunion.com |

Place a freeze at all three. Save the PIN or login each one gives you; you will need it to lift the freeze when you apply for credit.

In immediate danger: call 911. Crisis support: call or text 988, available 24/7.

Contact details can change. Confirm on each organization's website. OnlineFamilySafety.com is independent and not affiliated with any organization listed.